Dylan is at a party in the Beta Flap Gaga fraternity house at their Saturday party! While having fun, Dylan realizes he had a take home quiz, but can't quite remember where the class posts the assignments.

In addition to remembering, Dylan gets a "custom" notification on his phone that he has an assignment due in 2 hours.

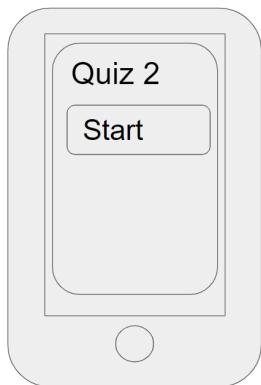

Dylan quickly gets distracted by a lady across the room. Being the lady man he is, he has to finish this quiz as quick as possible, but has been intoxicated for a little while.

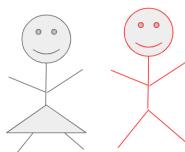

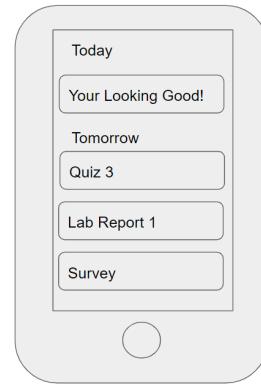

Since Dylan doesn't remember where his teacher posted the quiz, usernames, or passwords, he decides to go to the quiz through the app notification where he saved all this information to automatically go to the site (blackboard) where his quiz is posted.

He automatically goes to the quiz that he needs to complete. He starts to lose his eyesight, so good thing he has the enlarged font setting on.

After finishing the quiz, Dylan checks one more time to make sure nothing else is due today. He sees he has a couple things due tomorrow, but that's a tomorrow problem.

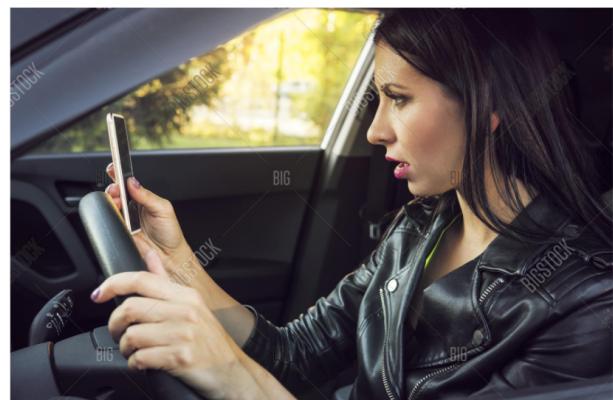

Dylan can go talk to his girl and is super thankful that he downloaded the blackbored app to help him realize when he's about to miss an assignment that is due. Without it, he would have not been able to talk to the girl quick enough and would have probably missed his assignment.

Jane is constantly moving to keep up with the demands of raising children. She spends most of her time either doing tasks within the home or driving during errands. However, she needs an easy way to keep track of the educational success of her multiple children.

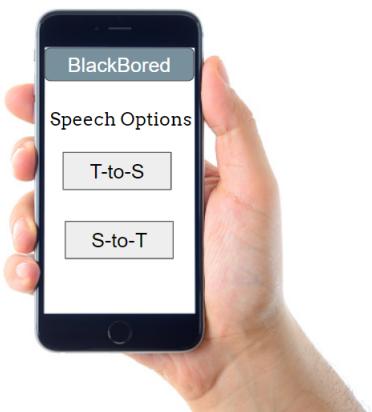

Jane fears that her life will be cut short by an accident if she continues to spend time looking at her phone while driving. Thus, she needs a way to monitor her children's education while traveling at dangerous speeds in a motor vehicle.

The BlackBored app has a feature where Jane can see a succinct weekly summary of her children's academics. This allows her to get an quick understanding of educational information relevant to her children's success.

One of Jane's favorite BlackBored features is the text-to-speech of the app reading the weekly success summary. This feature allows her to hear all the information she needs without the distraction of a looking at her phone while working or driving.

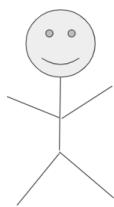

Jane looks at her phone and sees that there are multiple options involving speech. She decides to choose the second "speech-to-text" option.

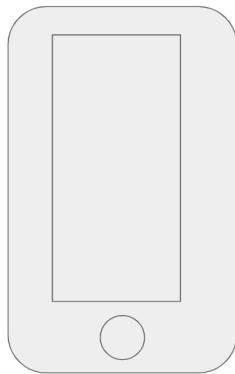

Jane wants to send messages to her children's teacher via BlackBored while being busy doing work. She can easily do this with the text-to-speech command. It opens up a whole new channel of communication for her children's academic success.

John is a student and TA at Georgia Tech and he was having a rough week with all of his work.....

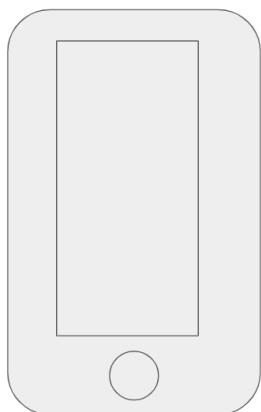

He received a notification from one of his friends to go to a bar on Friday night.

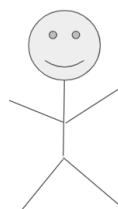

John was having a great time with his friends at the bar. He was not thinking about the remaining work that he had to do before the end of the weekend and he was just having a good time.

He received another notification from his phone. It was the Blackbored app that reminded him that he has an assignment to finish and another set of assignments to grade from his TA job.

After seeing the notification, the app clearly showed him what he needed to do for his assignment. It also showed him how many assignments that he had to grade. This was able to help him figure out how much time it would take to finish everything and get back to relaxing.

John was able to finish his work the same night. This allowed him to get more rest during the weekend. He would not have been able to do it in such a timely manner without the Blackbored app.

Roronoa loves sword fighting for exercise during his off days. It clears his head and also makes him keep up with his health.

Hey Professor Zoro, I noticed that you gave me a zero for an assignment in COMP 102. Can you please get back to me asap.

Thank you for reaching out. I checked the blackboard app and it seems to me that the files have been deleted. Therefore, they do not exist and I can't grade them.

Thanks for the quick response. It seems I have made a simple mistake

Thankfully a bunch a smart guys created this app with fail safes for this exact situation.

Thank you so much professor zoro. I figured it out and now my assignments are up. Hope you have a wonderful day.
